BIOGRAPHICAL/HISTORICAL NOTE

The Badin family was the oldest family of free people of color of Creole ancestry and their descendants who lived in the Cane River colony, a large community of free people of color in Natchitoches Parish, Louisiana. The family is descended from the enslaved persons of Pierre Badin, a planter of tobacco from Thorigne, France in the diocese of Poitiers. In 1791, Pierre manumitted all twenty enslaved persons in his possession. The freed slaves continued to live with Pierre and adopted his surname. Prior to Pierre's death in 1805, he drafted a will naming his former enslaved persons as his legatees.

Norbert Badin (approximately 1830-1903) was born a free person of color and lived in the Cane River settlement, a large community of free people of color in Natchitoches Parish, Louisiana. Badin and his family were planters and landowners who owned rental property on Bayou Bourbraux. Badin's ancestors were formally the enslaved persons of Pierre Badin.

Norbert Badin married Sylvia Phermance (born approximately 1835), who was also a free person of color. Their children included Zeline (born approximately 1860), Oscarine (born approximately 1862), Justinian L. (born approximately 1866), Pascali (born approximately 1868), Augustine, and Nerestin. The couple had a daughter who became a Catholic nun at the Holy Family Convent in New Orleans and took the name Sister Mary Celestine.

Zeline Badin married Joseph Roque, a descendent of Marie Thérèse Coincoin, in 1893. The couple lived in the Badin-Roque House, an early colonial bousillage home built by Jean Baptiste Metoyer. Oscarine Badin married Edgar Antee (died 1938, sometimes spelled "Anty"), and the couple had at least one child, a son named Edward (born approximately 1894). Edward Antee married Ethel Moran (born approximately 1898) of Melrose, Louisiana. The couple had a number of children, including Joe and Tony Antee.

Badin and his descendants appear to have stayed in the Cane River (Isle Brevelle) area of Natchitoches Parish during the creation of the papers, with the exception of Joe and Tony Antee, who corresponded from Beaumont, Texas and Mansfield, Ohio, respectively. Their great-aunt, Zeline Badin Roque, lived in Natchez, Louisiana.

The family connection between the Badins and the LaCaze brothers is not clear. Celestin (born July 18, 1798) and Michel (born April 12, 1801) LaCaze (also spelled Cassa, Lacases, Cassard, and Lacase) were the sons of an enslaved woman named Rosalie who was the property of a white planter of Little River named Jacques LaCaze. The identity of their father is not known. The brothers are described as "mulatres libres." Michel LaCaze married a free woman of color named Marie Delphine Laisa, on October 24, 1831. Celestin married Elisa Rouquier on March 22, 1835.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

Early papers (1829-1856) relate to the brothers Celestin and Michel LaCaze; the majority are in French. They contain a tax receipt, bills and receipts for various goods, and one receipt that was issued to their mother Rosalie, an enslaved woman. Many of these papers mention the names of other free people of color from the Cane River colony who were merchants to the community, including Auguste Metoyer.

Correspondence, financial and legal papers of Norbert Badin, his extended family, and their descendants make up a large part of the collection. The personal correspondence (1882-1937) reflects day-to-day life and common concerns of the Badins, their extended family, and their friends in the community. Many letters are from Pauline and Gabriel Metoyer, of Campti, Louisiana, to Norbert and other members of the Badin family (1889-1929).

The financial correspondence and papers (1873-1934) include bills and receipts for goods and services, statements of account, cotton receipts, and transactional correspondence concerning the cotton trade. Much of the correspondence is from cotton factors in New Orleans including R. M. Walmsley & Co. (1888-1891), their successor S. P. Walmsley & Co. (1893), John T. Hardie & Co. (1894-1895), their successor Wm. T. Hardie & Co. (1895-1902), and later A. J. Forstall & Co. (1902-1904). There is also correspondence from James McCook, from whom Badin leased land (1888, 1890). There are only five legal documents.

Various other materials include verses and lyrics, a report card of Tony Antee (1919-1920), a small letterbook belonging to J. L. Badin (1890), elementary school writing books and printed materials mostly of a promotional nature. Also included is a manuscript journal, which has the name of H. A. Thompsen etched on the cover, Horace Thompson written inside, and the name W. E. Wakefield of New Orleans written on the inside back cover; it appears to have been used by more than one person. The journal contains expenditures and receipts of Boy Jack and Harriet Permelia Woods from 1858; personal journal entries from 1904 of an employee of the Charles A. Kaufman Co. of New Orleans, Louisiana; a list of names with height, age, and degree of skin color specified; various other lists and pages of drawings including some of Theodore Roosevelt; lists broken down by girls and boys; lists of categories entitled waists, Scientific American, positions 1904; and a list of supplies used. A full list of published items can be found in the series descriptions.
