BIOGRAPHICAL/HISTORICAL NOTE

Born in Ohio, 1834 April 04, Andrew David Lytle grew up in Cincinnati from the age of six. When he was twenty-one years old, Andrew married nineteen-year-old Mary Ann Lundy.

Andrew had taken a job at William Southgate Porter's daguerreotype studio in Cincinnati. In the spring and summer, he and Mary traveled as itinerant photographer and wife through Alabama, Georgia, and Tennessee.

By 1857 the Lytles arrived in Baton Rouge during one of their itinerant seasons. It was in Baton Rouge that their first son, Andrew S. Lytle, was born. It was also here that Lytle took on a partner, Mr. Gibson, about whom we know very little. Together, Lytle and Gibson set up a studio in the Heroman Building in Baton Rouge. Their partnership was short-lived lasting only from December 1858 to April 1859. The Baton Rouge Daily Advocate carried the death notice of Andrew and Mary's son on 1859 March 10. On March 11 the same paper carried an advertisement saying Lytle and Gibson were leaving town. Five days later another advertisement stated Lytle and Gibson were leaving in eight days. There is no clear indication that Lytle and Gibson did indeed leave Baton Rouge, but Mr. Gibson disappears from advertisements never to appear again.

By 1859 September the Lytles were looking for a house to rent in the central part of town. Andrew moved his studio to Main Street a few blocks from the Mississippi River close to one of the busiest hotels in Baton Rouge.

As the nation moved toward war in late 1860 Lytle advertised in local newspapers on both sides of the Mississippi River. He also used his experience with a paramilitary group in Ohio to work with a local militia organization to train new recruits for the Confederacy.

When the Federal forces occupied Baton Rouge in May 1862 Lytle started his photographic relationship with the U.S. Army and Navy. He created a number of images of the occupying army encampments around the United States Army garrison on the north edge of town and elsewhere around Baton Rouge. He also created photographs of the United States Navy's West Gulf Blockading Squadron under Admiral James Glasgow Farragut.

Andrew and Mary had a second son in 1864. This son also died before reaching the age of four years.

Lytle's studio was so successful during the Civil War that he was able to pay a substantial amount of cash for a property with buildings a few doors down from the Governor's Mansion on North Boulevard. This became the Lytle family home for the next sixty years.

In the 1870s Mary and Andrew had two more children – Howard and Ethel - both of whom lived into adulthood. Howard joined his father in the studio sometime between 1885 and 1890. The 1905 city directory lists the studio as "Lytle & Son."

It is likely that as Andrew aged Howard took over more of the actual photographic work, especially the outdoor field photography the studio increasingly began to produce in the 1890s and which required use of 8" x 10" glass photographic negative plates, a camera for those plates, and a heavy wooden tripod for the camera.

The studio won contracts to photographically document the state penitentiary system around 1899. This contract required trips to the state penitentiary complex then in Baton Rouge (bordered by Main and Laurel Streets on the north and south and 7th Street and 12th Street on the west and east), the Angola and Hope state farms, and the Atchafalaya River basin levee camps. Some of the images from that contract were used to illustrate the Biennial Report of the Board of Control for the Louisiana State Penitentiary (1901-02 and 1902-03: HV 8338 A2 1901-1902 / 1902-1903). To see more of the images from that job please see Henry L. Fuqua, Jr. Lytle Photograph Collection and Papers, Mss. 1898.

Howard married Lillie Dickenson in 1889. They had two children, Mary Sue Lytle (born 1890) and Andrew David Lytle, Jr. (born 1892).

Mary Lytle, Andrew's wife for over forty years, died in 1898.

Using Lytle Studio negatives from the 1860s to the early 1900s, Howard Lytle printed photographs and created a number of albums in 1903. The images in this collection are from albums 3 and 4. Images from another album in the series may be seen in the collection Andrew D. Lytle Album Photograph Collection, Mss. 3708.

In 1910 an agent for the publisher of "The Photographic History of the Civil War," published for the fiftieth anniversary of the war, came to Baton Rouge and purchased most of the surviving negatives Lytle had created during the Federal occupation of Baton Rouge. The agent also spoke to Howard about the role his father had played in the war. It is from that conversation and the subsequent write up in "The Photographic History" that the story of Lytle as "camera spy for the Confederacy" was born. Other than this tale, told fifty years after the fact to a journalist, there is no record whatsoever of any such espionage by Lytle.

Andrew David Lytle, Jr. died of typhus in 1911 while a student cadet at Louisiana State University. Howard died in 1915, perhaps from tuberculosis. Andrew David Lytle, Sr. died in 1917 at the age of 83.

Sometime in the 1920s, as the heirs of Andrew David Lytle, Sr. moved out of the family home on North Boulevard, almost all of the glass photographic negative plates were destroyed. A small cache of negatives were discovered in the 1960s. Please see Andrew D. Lytle Photograph Collection, Mss. 2600, for those images

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

Collection is comprised of two albums of 380 photographs and four halftones created from photographic images created by Andrew D. Lytle and his son Howard. The album pages are loose, and the albums' covers have been separated. These albums, originally identified "Album #3" and "Album #4" but renamed as "A" and "C" from the original numbering associated with the images, represent a fairly comprehensive sampling of the entire historical production of Andrew David Lytle and his son, Howard, working out of their studio in Baton Rouge, Louisiana. Howard joined his father in the photography business around 1890 and may have been the principal photographer from 1895 until his own death in 1915.

Photographs document Baton Rouge buildings, street scenes, and community events; the Louisiana State Penitentiary in Baton Rouge and inmates working at Angola and Hope farms and in Atchafalaya Basin levee camps; outdoor and nature scenes from the Baton Rouge environs; logging operations; students, buildings, and events at Louisiana State University Agricultural and Mechanical College, in its former location at the present site of the State Capitol Building; Baton Rouge scenes during the Civil War including naval vessels, Federal encampments, and soldiers and sailors; the Lytle family; Baton Rouge firemen and their parades; the Elks' Burlesque Parade (Baton Rouge); and rivers and watercraft, especially the Mississippi River and steamboats. In a sense, the albums, which were printed and assembled by Howard Lytle in 1903, are a retrospective exhibition of the Lytles' work though by no means comprehensive as they lack studio patron's portraits. The images in the albums.

The albums have a very general order in the sense that certain subjects are more prevalent in one album and not in the other. By no means are these images arranged in any sort of clearly evident order. Rather, the images appear to have been placed in the albums according to how many would fit on a page without regard to image subject content, so they are not grouped by subject.

Please see the "Index Terms" for specific subjects and the "Container List" for item descriptions and location information.
