Biographical/Historical Note

An author from New Orleans, La., Anne Rice (born October 4, 1941) is a best-selling author of horror and fantasy as well as religious themed novels. She is best known for her Vampire Chronicles, which includes Interview with a Vampire, published in 1976. Other titles by Rice include Queen of the Damned, The Witching Hour, and Christ the Lord: Out of Egypt. She was married to the late poet Stan Rice (d. 2002) and is the mother of novelist Christopher Rice. She has also published works under the names Anne Rampling and A.N. Roquelaure.

Scope and Content Note

This collection contains published articles, interviews, and book reviews by or pertaining to the author Anne Rice. Publications include magazines and newspapers such as Rolling Stone, Playboy, Psychology Today, San Francisco Chronicle, and The New York Times Book Review. Also included are two audio tapes, one an interview from National Public Radio (undated), and the other a Larry King radio show interview (1988).

Collection Description

The collection contains a number of articles and reviews written by Anne Rice herself. These include an excerpt from her novel Queen of the Damned found in an issue of Rolling Stone (October 6, 1988) and an essay entitled "Interlude with the Undead" found in Playboy (January 1979). Also included are several issues of The New York Times Book Review which contain reviews by Anne Rice of the works of other authors, including Scott Turow, Edna Buchanan, and Catherine Roman (1987-1990).

The majority of the collection consists of reviews of the novels of Anne Rice and articles about the author herself. Books reviewed in The New York Times Book Review as well as the San Francisco Chronicle include The Vampire Lestat, Queen of the Damned, and The Witching Hour (1985-1991). A number of articles about the author, many containing interviews, are found in magazines such as The New York Times Magazine (1988), People (1988), Lear's (1989), Psychology Today (1989), and The Horror Show (1990) to name a few. The collection contains the full issues of all magazines as well as copies of the individual articles. For a full list of the articles, see the container list.

Two audio tapes are also included. One contains an interview with Anne Rice from National Public Radio (undated) and the other an interview from the Larry King Radio Show (November 1988).
